St. James's, March 25.

AN humble Addreſs of the Governour, High Sheriff, Deputy-Governour, Juſtices of the Peace, Grand-Jury, Gentlemen and Freeholders of the County of Monaghan, having been tranſmitted by the Lords Juſtices of Ireland to his Grace the Duke of Grafton Lord Lieutenant of that Kingdom, has by him been preſented to His Majeſty, who was pleaſed to receive it very graciouſly.

Hague, March 30, N. S. We have Letters from Conſtantinople dated the 20th of February laſt, which adviſe, that the Port had received a particular Account of the Revolution in Perſia from the Paſha of Babylon, importing, that the King had been obliged to ſubmit to the Rebel Mirveiz by Famine, which was ſo extreme that the Inhabitants of Iſpahan mutinied, and the great Men about the King preſſed him ſo hard to yield, that they prevailed with him to ſend Deputies to treat with Mirveiz: With thoſe Deputies a Treaty was made, by which it was agreed that Mirveiz, as Conquerour, ſhould be declared King, and the other depoſed on Condition no Hurt ſhould be done to his Perſon. Hereupon the King marched out of Town in Perſon to meet Mirveiz when he made his Entry, and afterwards invited him to a great Feaſt, at which he publickly declared, that he ſubmitted to the Will of God, who had made Mirveiz the Conquerour, and depoſed him, telling the People they ſhould acknowledge him for their King for the future: Having made this Declaration he retired, and according to the Intelligence the forementioned Paſha of Babylon had received, ſtill lived in one of the Royal Palaces, very ſtrictly watched, but not confined to a Chamber. Thus Mirveiz took upon him the Royal Government, by the Name of Schach or King Mahomud, and exerciſed it without any Oppoſition, for there was no more Talk of the depoſed King's Son, who was ſaid to be raiſing Forces at Casbin, in order to ſupport his Title. In the mean while the Paſha of Babylon had ſubmitted it to the Conſideration of the Port, whether an Army ſhould not be employed to dethrone him before he be well ſettled; this the ſaid Paſha judged to be ſo eaſy an Undertaking, that he had offered to execute it with the Troops of his own Government and that of Erzerum, without asking any more Men or Money of the Grand Signior. What Reſolution the Port will take upon this Propoſal, was not yet known: But theſe Letters from Conſtantinople tell us, that beſides the Province of Dagueſtan (formerly mentioned to be taken under the Protection of the Port) the Chans of Tauris, Teflis, and of the other Countries which compoſe the Greater Armenia, have alſo ſince recurred to their Protection; and they have reſolved to grant it to them, though theſe are all Provinces belonging to Perſia. We learn likewiſe by theſe Letters, that the Czar having left a Garriſon in Derbent, which is the only Place of Strength in the Province of Dagueſtan, and another in the new Fortreſs which he has built near Tarkou, the Port was waiting with Impatience to hear from the Capigi-Baſhi, who was ſome Time ſince ſent to the Czar about thoſe Proceedings, to take a final Reſolution. On the 12th of February a fourth Son was born to the Grand Signior, whereupon publick Rejoicings and Illuminations were made throughout Conſtantinople by his Command, for four Days and four Nights; and the Vizier having notified in Form this young Prince's Birth to all the foreign Miniſters at the Port, they diſtinguiſhed themſelves by their Illuminations on that Occaſion.
